Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0438799A1] A support grating (16) having external, nailable vertical laths (14) is mounted on a surface (11) to be lined with an insulating, multilayered rendering (30, 32, 34). At least one air-permeable corrugated paper (22) with horizontally running folds (22) and a wire mesh (26) on top of this are applied to said lathing over the entire surface. The jointlessly and seamlessly constructed rendering (30, 32, 34) consists of an internal, vapour-permeable cement roughcast (30), an undercoat rendering (32) and a final rendering (34), capable of being textured. An interspace filled with an air cushion (38) exists between facade (10) and corrugated paper (20), at least in the region between the vertical laths (14). A breathing rendering with a cement roughcast (30) and undercoat rendering (32) on a biological basis is particularly advantageous. <IMAGE>
