Abstract (en)

An improved rack, or creel, for supplying bundles of ribbon-like fibres, extracted from their container boxes in order to convey them to textile machines such as drawing frames, lapping-machines and any other similar machine, in which the said improved rack has at least one lifting and transfer track comprising endless flexible belts moved, one above the other, in the same direction and with the same value of motion. The said flexible belts are far enough apart to receive, with suitable compression, the bundle of ribbon-like fibres in order to convey it, without any alteration, to the entry of the work unit. <IMAGE>
