Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0442317A2] The invention relates to a table top or working surface, in particular a writing surface, resting on at least three legs. According to the invention it is attached in an articulated manner to two front legs (5, 6) or a frame (9) connecting these legs (5, 6), the rear leg or legs (2, 3, 12) are constructed at least partially as threaded spindles with nuts (10) which are adjustable thereon and, furthermore, the abovementioned legs (2, 3, 12) are guided through openings (11) or slots (4) in the table top or working surface (1) or are guided past their edge in such a way that the nuts (10) which are adjustable on them serve as a rest for the table top or working surface. <IMAGE>
