Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0445632A1] The violin shoulder rest essentially comprises a support part (1), intended to rest on the shoulder of the violinist, and a rigid arm (2) fixed to the base (3) of the chin rest. The support part (1) is fixed rigidly to the arm (2) by three clamping parts, but fixed in an adjustable manner in inclination and angle with respect to the arm (2) and at a distance from the end of the violin. When these adjustments have been made, the rigid fixing of the support part (1) to the arm (2) is carried out using a single screw (25) which has no risk of untimely unscrewing. <IMAGE>
