Abstract (en)

The invention consists of a jointed outlining guide for ceiling structures, for bent or round panels or for any curved architectural structure to be covered with plaster-board or other similar materials. The outlining guide formed by a series of box-like, U-shaped sections (1) linked by pliable joints are made preferably from a metal sheet in which circular or semi-circular slots are cut in such position that, when the sheet is properly bent, links between one box-like section and the other are formed. The side walls of the open box-like sections can be of the same height or of different heights and their edges can be either straight or turned inward. <IMAGE>
