Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0456105A2] A rinsing machine is proposed, which serves for cleaning upright articles such as trays or the like. In order to achieve a great opening height of the access opening (3) to the rinsing chamber (2), a lower flap door (4) as well as an upper sliding door (5) is provided, the synchronous movements of which are controlled via a cable pull (11) with deflection rollers (12, 13). In this connection, the upper sliding door is drawn upwards vertically to a great extent. <IMAGE>
