Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0457055A2] In a guitar with strings fitted over a fingerboard, three strings (E1 B G) are bare, i.e. uncovered. They consist of at least one monofil plastic. To avoid large differences in the diameters of the bare strings, these strings (2, 3, 4), differently from one another, consist of at least two different plastics whose density increases with decreasing pitch of the strings. <IMAGE>
