Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9009315A1] In a method for packaging flat bags, sacks or the like objects (10) they are placed one after another, as seen in a direction perpendicular to their planes. The objects (10) are brought into a collecting space (2) in such a fashion that they come one after another in a queue, whereafter they are moved, when being in an upright position, in the direction of their planes into a packaging space (3) by pushing by their sides. The apparatus for accomplishing the method comprises a pushing member (4) which is provided in the collecting space (2) for a horizontal movement in the direction of the planes of the objects for moving the objects into the packaging space.
