Abstract (en)
[origin: US5206961A] To simplify the installation and maintenance of a urinal, the bowl (3) is fastened to the building wall (6) such that it can be turned away from it. To achieve this, a bracket (8) is provided, which has a holding frame (10) fastened to the bowl (3), a mounting plate (9) fastened to the wall (6), as well as support rods (11) hinged to these. For maintenance, the bowl (3) is detached from bolts (7) and is swung away from the building wall by the holder (8) in a forward and downward direction. The fittings (26, 27, 19) and devices (5) arranged behind the bowl (3) are accessible from the side, from the bottom, and from the top. After maintenance, the bowl (3) is turned back to the building wall (6), and is fastened with the bolt (7).
