Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0468390A2] Method for producing a thread-end reserve, in which, after a specific diameter of the bobbin is reached, the thread is guided down from the outer surface of the bobbin onto the tube and subsequently back again onto the outer surface of the cross-wound bobbin. For carrying out the method on a conical bobbin, the tube used has, at its end of smaller diameter, a groove for receiving the thread-end reserve. <IMAGE>
