Abstract (en)

A supporting device (14) for supporting reels (13) during dyeing operations, in particular in a dyeing autoclave (10), comprises a supporting structure composed of a base (15) from which protrudes a central shaft (16). A plurality of modules (20) each comprise a centrally perforated plate (17) which fits onto the shaft (16) and from which hollow pins (18) protrude at right angles to each receive one or more reels (13) stacked one on top of the other. A cover (24) can be locked on to the shaft (16) to hold a plurality of modules (20), elements (19) being provided between the modules to reciprocally couple and centre them with the other modules (20). <IMAGE>
