Abstract (en)
[origin: FR2646143A3] The invention relates to a container for fluids, pastes and the like with four sides meeting at four edges and with a base consisting of four partial surfaces bordering one another in the shape of a roof. The invention provides a sectional container with a large visible area but also a large capacity. It is especially suitable for tomato concentrate and other viscous substances. The container has an attractive exterior. It also solves the problem of using paper for toothpaste, tomato, mayonnaise and other paste tubes.
