Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0471965A1] The two-part key-ring (10, 20) has a ring (11, 21) in each case for receiving keys, the two parts of the key-ring being detachable from one another. The two key-ring parts are of complementary design relative to each other or are constructed in such a way that one key-ring part can essentially be received in the other key-ring part, the two key-ring parts (10, 20) can be coupled to one another by means of catch or latch connection parts (12), and the rings or their connections to the key-ring parts are arranged immediately adjacently in the assembled state.
