Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0474625A2] Method of straightening metallic bands, in particular endless metallic bands, for production equipment or the like, e.g. band presses and double band presses, the areas to be straightened being determined and subjected to forces via a device, a relative motion being performed between the band and the device exerting the force, and the forces acting on the surface of the band in the form of a multiplicity of pulses and causing compressive internal stresses in the surface acted upon. <IMAGE>
