Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0476402A2] In a bath-tub edge fitting, or another fitting, in which a shower hose extends through a plate or the like, the rear of which is difficult to access, it is proposed that the shower hose be connected to the fixed water pipe by means of a pressure hose. The pressure hose is sufficiently long that it can be drawn at least as far as the opening in the plate, by pulling on the shower hose, so that the shower hose can be exchanged in front of or outside the plate.
