Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0483497A1] This leveller bar is formed by two vertical metal sheets (1) which extend over the entire length of the oven chamber and are arranged parallel to one another at a distance depending on the width of the oven chamber and which are joined to one another by spacer bars (3). In the interspace bounded by the vertical metal sheets (1), there are a plurality of coal pushers (2) arranged one behind the other and with an alternate mutual offset, the coal pushers (2) not extending over the entire width of the interspace bounded by the vertical metal sheets (1). <IMAGE>
