Abstract (en)
A folding container comprises rectangular bottom (A), both side (B), front (C) and rear plates (D), in which the bottom and both side plates are coupled to one another such that the side plates can be rotated clockwise and counterclockwise by bringing a pair of support shafts (21) to fit into the lower edge front and rear end faces of the side plate. The front, rear and both side plates are coupled to one another such that the front and rear plates can be rotatable about sideways running axes and the both side plates can be rotated clockwise and counterclockwise by bringing support shafts (36) to fit into the upper edge front and rear end faces of the side plates. <IMAGE>
