Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0489398A1] A shower head with a jet floor (16) contains a cleaning device in its interior. Said device consists of a swivellably mounted base element (19) on whose side facing the inside of the jet floor (16) projections (20) are arranged. The projections (20) correspond in their size and arrangement to the jet holes (18) of the jet floor (16). With the aid of an actuation element, the base element can be swivelled by the user in such a way that the projections (20) engage at least as far as into the jet holes (18). <IMAGE>
