Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9104770A1] A snow ski (20) for use in soft deep snow, in which the length and width of the ski is selected so as to optimize the surface area in relation to the weight of the skier using the ski. The ski is also provided with a binding plate (10) to which a normal ski binding may be secured, and which may be adjusted longitudinally on the ski in order to select the proper position of the skier's weight with respect to the length of the ski, and for varying snow conditions.
