Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0496043A1] A chimney stove has a floor (17) which can be lowered and in which the grate (18) is disposed. The floor (17) is pushed downwards by the increase in weight resulting from placing fuel (21) on the floor (17), and entrains a closure flap (20) which then opens, to a greater or lesser extent, an air feed opening (15) arranged beneath the grate (18). <IMAGE>
