Abstract (en)

The present disclosure is related to an assembly-type goods display shelf disposed in association with a cooling container in the supermarket, which is made up of a pair of side tracks (1) and a number of restraint frames (6) and a number of upper and lower guide members (8, 9) that are connected together by arc-shaped guide members (503) so to make the guide members (8, 9) continuously associated; and a front support rod (4), a number of middle support units (3) and a rear support bracket (5) that are disposed in parallel onto the side tracks (1) by a number of fixing blocks (2) with the restraint frames (6) spacedly mounted astride the support rod (4) and support units (3) and the support bracket (5) in parallel and the continuously extended guide members (8, 9) are removably secured onto the support assembly with the level of the guide members (8, 9) continuously lowered so to permit the disposed cans to move in circulation automatically by gravitational force one by one when the canned items are taken by consumers. <IMAGE>
