Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0499552A1] The handle according to the invention comprises a crosspiece (4) extending transversely with respect to the shaft (2) of the pole and surmounted by a longitudinal handle (7) which is offset transversely on the crosspiece (4) and arranged in a direction which is substantially parallel to the pole shaft (2). The longitudinal handle (7) constitutes the gripping zone for holding the pole during a descent. The crosspiece (4) constitutes the preferred gripping zone for holding the pole during climbing or during axial pushing. <IMAGE>
