Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0499777A1] A Florentine blind has a supporting structure (24) which is fixed to a wall (11) or ceiling via brackets (12, 16) and which carries at least two extendable articulated arms (34, 36), by means of which a cloth (32) can be extended and tensioned or wound on a cloth shaft (30), as desired. The inclination of the articulated arms (34, 36) and hence of the cloth (32) is adjustable relative to the wall (11) or ceiling by virtue of the fact that the supporting structure (24) is pivotably mounted on the brackets (12, 16) and can be locked relative to the latter. <IMAGE>
