Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0505592A1] An arrangement which stands on the floor of a room and is intended for creating partially divided workspaces contains a hollow girder (1), arranged at a distance above the floor (2) and running parallel to the latter, and at least two vertically standing wall segments (9, 10) which project upwards from the hollow girder (1) and are respectively supported at one of their ends on the floor (2) and with their other end on the hollow girder (1), and which are arranged relative to one another so that together with the hollow girder (1) they form a defined partial space.
