Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0505754A2] A rod-type curler (1) without a bar for curling and fixing dry or moist hair has a curling body (2) made of resilient, restoring foam plastic and is provided with a device for fixing a curved form of the curling body (2) after curling. At least in one end region (5), the curling body (2) has a slot (9) which is closed at the edges or a narrow punch-out which extends parallel to the axis (10) of the curling body (2). Furthermore, the curling body (2) has constant external dimensions over its substantially axial extent. The slotted or punched region of the curling body (2) is elastically deformable to form a loop in order to receive the other end of the curling body (2) in the fixed position. <IMAGE>
