Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0516002A1] In a domestic appliance, for example a dishwasher, with a door (12) arranged pivotably about a horizontal axis (13) above a plinth recess (11a), and with a door base part (12a), a pivoting of the door base part (12a) into the plinth recess (11a) is prevented in that the door base part (12a) is connected in an articulated manner to the plinth (11) separately from the door (12) and is suspended on the door (12) via a link (16), in such a way that, with the door (12) closed, it bears against the door bottom edge, with the exception of a gap (19), and during the opening of the door (12) is moved downwards by its own weight. <IMAGE>
