Abstract (en)

In an arrangement for operating a touch screen panel (44,46) for processing an order in a fast food operation, for example, an infrared detection device (48) is superimposed on the touch screen panel (44,46), such that the movement of a selecting member such as a customer's finger through the infrared detection device (48) results in the highlighting of a group (e.g. 26) of food items displayed on the touch screen panel (44,46) allowing an order to be generated by touching the touch screen panel adjacent the selected item in the highlighted group (26). <IMAGE>
