Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0529132A1] In order to improve the hygienic measures at least in the functional areas "instrument tray" and "handpiece mounting" it is proposed that those sections (7a, 7b) of the instrument tray which include the storage surface for the instruments and the mounting means for the handpieces be combined to form a constructional unit (7) and that the constructional unit be mounted so as to be easily removable on a basic body (6) of the instrument tray. This constructional unit advantageously also includes the handling means (8) with which the position of the instrument tray can be changed. The corresponding parts (7a, 7b, 8) are made of a material which is resistant at least to cleaning agents and disinfectants.
