Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0529228A1] A packaging bag with a suspension hook consists of a preferably re-closable bag made of plastic, which has at its upper end an extension (14) preferably constructed as a handle, and a hook (16) with a hook part (15), and a base part (1) which is constructed as a tube and has on its underside a slot with which it can be fitted onto a bead provided on the extension (14). In order that the base part of the hook constructed as a tube can easily be fitted onto the bead of the extension of the bag, and in order that the base part cannot slip in the fitted-on position, at least one lug, which engages in a cutout (3, 4) in the bag or in its extension (14), is provided on the base part (1). <IMAGE>
