Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9117688A1] A clothes-hanger has a centrepiece (1), and two end pieces (2), which, with guide portions (6, 8, 11), are telescopically accommodated and secured in each respective end portion of the centrepiece (1) and insertable therein against the action of a spring (9). The centrepiece (1) has an at least partly downwardly open U-shaped cross-section. At each end and on its underside, the centrepiece (1) has a support and guide surface (12) which interconnects the shanks of its U-shaped cross-section. The support and guide surfaces (12) are, seen in the longitudinal direction of the centrepiece (1), located outside the outer ends of the upper defining wall (5) of the centrepiece.
