Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0533042A1] The invention relates to a device for threading webs in rotary web printing machines. A device is to be provided which can be produced cost-effectively. Additionally, the threading of a partial web via turning rods is to be made possible with little expenditure. For this purpose, a threading strip (13) in the form of a hooked strip is guided on the threading path and the beginning of the web bears a looped strip (35), or vice versa. <IMAGE>
