Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0539779A2] A sales or self-service counter having a counter body and an upper structure which serves for the movable securing of the circular curved front pane. The circular curved front pane can be moved out of the closed position either by turning it about a spindle arranged horizontally at the top on the upper structure or by displacing it towards the rear along the imaginary continuation of the circular curved line. The front pane is provided with a coating whose light permeability has a minimum in the ultraviolet region.
