Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0541464A1] This machine comprises a perforated drum (2) mounted rotatably in a tub (3), in which machine the annular space formed between the drum (2) and the bottom of the tub (3) for receiving the treatment fluids and transmitting them into the drum, is divided by inner collars (6) into as many sealed compartments as there are treatment fluids, whilst means for driving the articles and means for driving it in rotation are provided. According to the invention, on the one hand the drum (2) is divided into successive compartments (T1 to T10) by inner annular collars (7), and on the other hand the means of transferring the articles during treatment consist of a perforated frustoconical scoop (8) extending upstream from the circular outlet orifice (9) of each compartment to its inlet orifice. <IMAGE>
