Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0541505A1] The invention relates to a knife sheath (knife-carrier case) intended to be carried hung from the belt C. Such a case is composed of two compartments, a male compartment (20) and a female compartment (10), which can be nested in each other, the first (20) of which is movable, arrow A, with respect to the second (10) and acts as a cover (sheath) for the abovementioned knife, and the second (20) of which is fixed and associated, hung from the abovementioned belt C, in such a manner that the male compartment (20) can move with respect to the female compartment (10) between a first nested, so-called closed, position and a second unnested, so-called open, position and vice versa. The abovementioned female compartment (10) has an oblong shape and is held parallel to the said belt C so as to be carried hung in the horizontal position. <IMAGE>
