Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0580940A2] The baking oven has a device for circulating hot air in the cooking compartment by means of a circulating-air blower arranged in a blower chamber. Elongated blowing-out slots are situated in the edges of the blower chamber on both sides of the circulating-air blower. According to the invention, the blowing-out slots are subdivided by narrow webs into a plurality of slot sections following one another in the slot longitudinal direction. <IMAGE>
