Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0582965A2] A money-actuated amusement device with a housing (1) is provided with a money-processing device, which is controlled by a central control unit and to which a pay-in unit and a pay-out unit are assigned. To allow more than one player to play at different places, the housing (1) has a plurality of push-in compartments (8), for receiving small handy, computer-controlled amusement terminals (9), which are either provided with a storage battery and are connected in the pushed-in position by means of a plug connection serving as an interface or are connected via a long connection lead bidirectionally to the control unit of the money-processing device. <IMAGE>
