Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0585575A2] With a stackable carrying case having stacking supports, which can be pivoted from a stacking position into an empty stacking position, for stacking one above the other in the goods transporting position and for partial nesting in the empty transporting position, a solution is to be provided, with which, on the one hand, complex case shapes, such as with the turning cases, are dispensed with, which generally also reduces the production costs, and, on the other hand, the loss of stacking aids is avoided. This is achieved in that the stacking supports (8) are provided with an insertion foot (11) which can be fixed on the case bottom (4) and a support body which can be fixed on said insertion foot by means of film hinges (13) or the like, with a top receiving region (16) for the bottom (4) of a case (1) stacked above it, the stacking supports (8) being pivotable on to the case bottom (4) from the stacking position (Figure 1) into an empty transporting position (Figure 2). <IMAGE>
