Abstract (en)

A lidded container which allows two or more containers to be nested together has a rectangular body (10) and a lid (12) attached to it by a first hinge (11) along one of the upper edges of the container. The lid is in two sections (13, 14) which are hinged to each other by a second hinge (15) parallel to the first hinge (11). The structure allows the lid to be folded upon itself and stowed against an outside face of the container, in which position the container can be nested. <IMAGE>
