Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0603483A2] The baking oven has an oven door (1) which closes the interior of the baking oven and contains a hollow space (13) between an inner and an outer door plate (7/8, 9). According to the invention, a heat-conducting plate (10), which consists of a material of good thermal conductivity, is parallel to the door plates and extends substantially over the entire area of the door plates, is arranged in the hollow space (13). <IMAGE>
