Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9406663A1] A three-dimensional cell (1) is subdivided by at least two fixed partitions (7, 8, 9) into mutually separated areas, for example a living area (10), a shower booth (11) and a WC booth (12). The three-dimensional cell (1) is characterized in that it has a further available area (13) besides said areas. By selectively moving a mobile partition (14), the further available area (13) may be added to at least another area in order to increase the useful surface of the latter.
