Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0631738A1] Hair dryers are fitted with electrically driven fans (4) which cause a considerably high noise level. The noise nuisance can be reduced significantly according to the invention if a housing attachment (8) is fitted over the intake opening adjacent to such a fan (4), which housing attachment forms a housing chamber (80) which precedes the first intake opening (12) and is connected to the environment via a second intake opening (84). <IMAGE>
