Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9321372A1] A dispensing device for the treatment and washing of textile items, which can be used with liquid detergents or similar compositions, both for pretreatment of the items and to dispense the said detergent in the washing machine during washing. In particular the dispensing device consists of a hollow body (11) with smooth walls, a base (13) on which a vertical position can be maintained, at least one filling and dispensing aperture (14) through which the device can be filled with a quantity of detergent and through which the detergent is distributed into the washing machine drum during washing, with a pouring aperture (24) formed in the hollow body (11) above the maximum filling level, the pouring aperture (24) being roughly horizontal when the dispenser is in vertical position on the base (13), and through which a specific quantity of detergent can be poured by tilting the device (10).
