Abstract (en)

[origin: DE4202636A1] The coding label(6), which provides the information, documents the beginning and/or last use and is mounted directly on the packaging container. The information can comprise calendar dates (7) and tearable incisions next to the dates. The area around the incisions can be free of adhesive for easier tearing. The coding information can be placed on the edge of the label on the package. It can be provided on the inside of an opening section of a packaging container. Several adhesive labels can be provided as a set on a sheet for subsequent attachment. ADVANTAGE - Facility for the user's adaptation of the information label.
