Abstract (en)

[origin: DE4223516C1] Described is a suction device for cleaning the skin (5), the device having a suction nozzle with several openings (2) plus a gap (4). The skin (5) is drawn by a pulsating suction force (9) into the openings where it closes off the gap (4) in which a pulsating compression force (7), synchronized with the suction force (9), is generated. Comedones (3) are thus squeezed out of the pores (6) by short, variable compressive thrusts.
