Abstract (en)
A container comprises a base (10) and a peripheral wall (12) which define an upwardly-open containing space (14) and at least one partition (18) for dividing the containing space (14) adapted to be inserted in and removed from the containing space (14). The container further includes a base panel (16) adapted to be located removably on the base (10) and having a plurality of seats, preferably grooves (24), in its face opposite the base (10), it being possible to insert the lower edge of the at least one partition (18) in the seats. <IMAGE>
