Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0659681A1] In the case of a machine for filling containers having a plurality of filling elements (1) which are arranged in circle, there is assigned to each filling element a mount (2), which can be moved radially by means of a drive element (4), for a rinsing cap (3) which can be connected to the filling element and the rest position of which is situated inside a protective wall (5) which is arranged within the filling element in a radial fashion. Within the range of movement of each mount there is formed in the protective wall an aperture (6) which is sealed off by means of a lid (7) when the mount adopts its rest position. <IMAGE>
