Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0662286A1] The helmet has a shellproof dome (1) with inner lining fixed by a screw sleeve connection (3) which projects through an opening in the dome and adjoins the outside of the dome with a flat round head (2) which can be turned by a tool. This head is made solid with the relevant part of the connection with a flat surface from a highly tensile material and has parallel opposing straight edges (7) to form the key faces. The distance between the key faces is preferably twice as large as the outer diameter of the part of the screw sleeve connection belonging to the head. A screw connected to the head can be screwed into a sleeve fixed on the inner lining.
