Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9507843A1] The package box comprises a substantially parallelepipedic body formed of planar sheet (1) which, through successive foldings, configures the box such that the extreme sides (2, 3) are superposed by their concurrent faces. An extreme face (2) incorporates a varnish strip (4) and the corresponding face of the other end (3) presents a strip of self-adhesive material. The side which carries the self-adhesive material has a die-cut portion surrounding it with the exception of the external side, so that the cleared strip remains in contact with the corresponding strip of the other face supporting the self-adhesive material. The die-cut strip (5) may be easily removed from the box, since it does not adhere to the other face, and may be stuck to any document.
