Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9508483A1] In prior art transport packages of the type described in the preamble, the appliance is encased in a cardboard carton, the rear wall of which is stiffened by an internal timber frame and into which are inserted additional supporting and filling components made of timber and cardboard. The structure of the package of the invention with a plastic rear wall (12) and other wall sections (14, 16, 18, 20, 22) secured together to be movable in rotation and preferably also consisting of plastic panels requires no additional filling components and is environmentally friendly because its components can be re-used. The preferred application is as packaging for gas water heaters.
