Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0673817A1] The installation comprises a chassis (2) which has at least one contact surface (6) on its lower side. This acts with the deceleration or acceleration wheels (5), which are located in the area of the track (1). The wheels are moveable about horizontal axles. The contact surface is rigidly, flexibly or pivotally connected to the chassis. The wheels are located above the traction cable (3) and are divided into groups, which are associated with drive engines (51). Wheels within groups are coupled via transmissions.
